Passage 1

Questions 11-15 are based on the following passage.

University life is in no way cheap in Canada. It costs Peter Kemp, a computer science major at the British Columbia Institute of Technology in Vancouver, C$18,000 a year.

Amazingly, the 21-year-old is covering the cost by himself.

For the past three years, Kemp has done a range of part-time jobs to pay for his tuition and living expenses. Last semester alone, he worked five jobs for 32-40 hours a week. Life is busy, but Kemp enjoys it.

“Doing part-time jobs gives me economic independence,” said Kemp, who will begin his senior year this fall. “Having economic independence gives me the ability to take control of my life and make my own decisions,” said Kemp. “It has also helped me understand the value of money.

Among Kemp’s five jobs last semester, two were on campus. For one, he helped maintain the university’s computer labs. For the other, he worked at the IT service desk to help students and teachers solve their computer problems. He also worked for a small company that develops GPS systems. This job paid him well at C$27 an hour.

“These jobs made me put what I’ve learned in university to practical use,” Kemp said. “I accomplished creative and imaginative tasks by applying my abilities to the work.”

Good time management skills help Kemp balance work and study. He’s a top student in his class. And he will be the student association chairman for his department beginning next semester. It’s a position that he has desired for a long time. “It will give me the opportunity to be the voice for my fellow students and make a difference,” says Kemp.

“I believe one of the key secrets to juggling(应付)everything is to avoid putting off tasks. This can leave you stressed and reduce the quality of your work and health,” he said.

“I often make a list of the things I need to do each day and rank them by their importance. The list helps me decide what task I should do first and when I should complete it. Remember to ask for help when you think you can’t finish something on time, or can’t finish it by yourself.”

11. Who is Peter Kemp?

- A. A computer student
- B. An American student
- C. A French student
- D. A British student

12. How did he manage to pay his tuition and living expenses?
- A. He did a variety of part-time jobs.
 - B. He won a few scholarships.
 - C. He borrowed money from his parents.
 - D. He obtained cheap loans from the bank.
13. Which of the following is NOT directly mentioned in the passage as an advantage of having economic independence?
- A. It makes one understand that life is not easy.
 - B. It helps one know the value of money.
 - C. It gives one the ability to control his or her life.
 - D. It enable one to make his or her own decisions.
14. Kemp is able to balance work and study due to his _____.
- A. strong will power.
 - B. exceptional intelligence.
 - C. desire to become a leader.
 - D. good management of time.
15. The phrase “putting off” in Paragraph 8 means _____.
- A. performing.
 - B. fulfilling.
 - C. finishing.
 - D. postponing

Passage 2

Questions 16-20 are based on the following passage.

Equal pay for equal work is a phrase used by the American women who feel that they are looked down upon by the society. They say it is not right for women to be paid less than men for the same work.

People who hold the opposite opinion (mainly men) have an answer to this. They say that men have more responsibility than women; a married man is expected to earn money to support his family and to make important decisions, and therefore it is right for men to be paid more.

There are some people who hold even stronger opinion than this and are against married women working at all. When wives go out to work, they say, the home and children are given no attention to. If women are encouraged by equal pay to take full-time job, they will be unable to do the things they are supposed to. Women are best at making a comfortable home and bringing up children. They will have to give up their present position in society.

“This is exactly what they want to give up,” the women who disagree say. “They want to escape from the limited place which society expects them to fill, and to have freedom to choose between a job and home life, or a mixture of the two. Women have the right of equal pay and equal opportunities.”

These women have expressed their opinions forcefully by using the famous saying, “All men are created equal.” They point out that the meaning of this sentence is “all human beings are created equal.”

16. The women use the phrase “equal pay for equal work” to demand that _____.
A. women’s work shouldn’t be harder than men’s
B. men should be paid less than women
C. people doing harder work should earn more
D. men and women should be paid the same amount of money for the same work
17. What exactly do the women who disagree want to give up?
A. Their job
B. Their home life
C. Their right to pay
D. Their present position in society
18. People who disagree with women’s opinions believe _____.
A. women can’t do what men can
B. men can earn money more easily than women
C. men’s responsibilities are different from women’s
D. men have to work much harder than women

19. The women who disagree say that _____.
A. if women are given equal pay, their opportunities will be greater
B. women are no longer interested in taking care of their homes
C. women want more freedom in deciding the kind of life they live
D. women need opportunities to go out of the house more often
20. American women who feel that they are looked down upon by the society because _____.
A. they have to stay at home for homework
B. they have no time to work
C. they have no right to work
D. women are paid less than men for the same work.

Rock and roll is a ~~genre~~ of popular music that started in the United States in the late 1940s and early 1950s. Its 21 lie mainly in blues, rhythm and blues, country, folk, gospel, and jazz. The style subsequently spread to the rest of the world and developed further, leading ultimately to 22 rock music. The term “rock and roll” now covers at least two 23 meanings, both in common usage. The American Heritage Dictionary and the Merriam-Webster Dictionary both 24 rock and roll as synonymous with rock music.

25, Allwords.com defines the term as referring specifically to the music of the 1950s. Classic rock and roll is 26 played with one or two electric guitars, a string bass or an electric bass guitar, and a drum kit. In the 27 rock and roll styles of the late 1940s, either the piano or saxophone was often the lead instrument, but these were generally 28 or supplemented by the guitar in the middle to late 1950s.

The massive popularity and eventual worldwide view of rock and roll gave it a 29 social impact. Far beyond simply a musical style, rock and roll, as seen in movies and in the new medium of television, 30 lifestyles, fashion, attitudes, and language. It went on to spawn various sub-genres, often without the initially characteristic backbeat, that are now more commonly called simply “rock music” or “rock”.
