My Favorite Hobby

I have many hobbies, such as reading, listening to music, watching TV, and doing sports. Of all my hobbies, reading is my favorite.

I love reading because it's like opening a door to different worlds. When I read a book, I can explore various cultures, learn about historical events, and enter the imaginative minds of the authors. It not only broadens my horizons but also enriches my knowledge. For example, reading science-fiction novels makes me curious about the future of technology, and classic literature allows me to understand different aspects of human nature.

There is no doubt that reading adds color and richness to my life and helps my mind wander through inspiring stories. It has become an essential part of my personal growth.

Graduation Travel

In recent years, an increasing number of college graduates have chosen to travel after graduation, which has gained widespread popularity.

Several factors contribute to this phenomenon. Firstly, travel serves as a psychological relaxation, helping graduates relieve academic stress and prepare for the challenges of the workplace. Secondly, it offers a unique opportunity to explore diverse cultures, broaden horizons, and gain practical experience beyond the classroom. Additionally, the cultural and tourism industry now offers special travel packages for graduates, like group tours and adventure trips.

In my view, graduation travel is not just a leisure activity but a meaningful investment in personal growth. It fosters independence, adaptability, and a global perspective, equipping graduates with valuable

My View on Opportunity

Different people have different views on opportunity. It is held that there are only a few opportunities. But it is also held that there are opportunities everywhere.

Those who hold the first opinion think that there are too many people and there is always an intense competition for limited opportunities. In contrast, those who hold the second view think that if one is not prepared, he can hardly seize any opportunity. However, if one is prepared, he can have a lot of opportunities.

As for me, I agree with the latter. Admittedly, there is really an intense competition for limited opportunities, but that is not to say one can't create opportunities himself. For example, many people have lost their jobs in recent years. Some people wait for opportunities. However, others create opportunities themselves and get self-employed. Eventually they become employers themselves. Therefore, to some extent, one can take his destiny into his own hands.

Career Planning

In recent years, the topic of career planning has caused a heated debate due to the increasingly fierce job market.

Early career planning is crucial for university students. Firstly, having a clear career goal motivates students to learn more actively. When they understand how their coursework relates to their desired profession, they will become more engaged and purposeful in their studies. Secondly, early career planning offers enough time for skill development. Students can identify the specific knowledge required for their target career and seek relevant internships, certificates, or projects to build a strong resume.

On Pursuing Fashion

Nowadays, more and more undergraduates are pursuing fashion. Some of them even cut down the expenditure on books and meals to satisfy their desire for fashionable items.

The blind following of fashion has had a great influence on college students. First of all, the pursuit of fashion has made many college students get lost. Some of them even fail to focus on their study. Secondly, it is a costly hobby to follow the tide, which will impose great financial burden on their parents.

As far as I am concerned, college students should cherish ambitions rather than become slaves of fashion. As for them, the main task on campus is not to pursue fashion but to study. All in all, undergraduates should adopt a more reasonable attitude towards the pursuit of fashion.

My Club Activity

Club activities play a vital role in the lives of many students, offering a platform for personal growth, social interaction, and the pursuit of hobbies. I participated in many club activities during university. Among these, hosting the New Year's Eve party stands out as my most memorable experience.

My partner and I arrived at the lecture hall an hour early. As she helped me with my makeup, I felt incredibly excited and nervous. Afterwards, I practiced my lines several times on the stage so that I could have a better performance. When the party eventually began, I walked onto the stage with a nervous heart. Looking at the audience, I presented the opening remarks as confidently as I could. With the applause of the audience, I was encouraged and had a confident smile on my face.

Club activities not only enrich our free time but also cultivate essential skills and values. This experience has made me a more confident person and I have a firm belief that opportunities only come to those who are well prepared.

Cyberspace Superstars

Cyberspace is an amazing place where superstars can be made overnight. There are more and more cyberspace superstars in our life in recent years.

Three factors might contribute to the phenomenon. To begin with, Internet is accessible to people. For those who want to gain overnight fame, they can turn to the network to make their dreams come true. Secondly, the cyberspace is an open place where everyone can upload their pictures, videos and personal comments. Some people's photos and videos are posted by other people and thus gain great popularity. Thirdly, it is undeniable that some cyberspace superstars are different and interesting.

Frankly speaking, I am not very interested in these so-called cyberspace superstars. I would rather pay more attention to people around me.

My View on Part-time Jobs

There is a phenomenon that a large number of college students are interested in doing part-time jobs at college. It is obvious that it has both advantages and disadvantages.

Part-time jobs will certainly bring a lot of benefits to students. To begin with, they are able to gain much valuable working experience and prepare themselves for the future job. In addition, college students have the chance to make professional friends in the related field, which can be helpful for their future career. However, the drawbacks can't be ignored. When college students work part-time, it will inevitably take some of their study time to some extent, which may influence their performance and grades at college.

As far as I am concerned, every coin has two sides. The advantages of doing part-time jobs outweigh the disadvantages.

Reading

Since ancient times, reading has been widely regarded as one of the most important and valuable activities. People believe that we can gain wisdom through reading books.

My favorite book is The Little Prince. A young prince from a tiny planet travels through the universe, learning about love, loss, and the invisible truths of the heart from a fox and a pilot on the Earth. It tells a simple but profound story that has deeply influenced me. It taught me that we should always keep a pure and kind heart.

Reading is of great importance for many reasons. Firstly, it increases our knowledge and helps us understand the world better. Secondly, it allows us to see the world through different angles, encouraging empathy and broadening our horizons. Indeed, reading is a lifelong treasure.

My View on Campus Second-Hand Recycling

Campus second-hand recycling, such as passing on used textbooks, clothes or daily items, has become a common trend, and its value for college students cannot be ignored.

There are many advantages of it. For one thing, it significantly cuts down students' expenses. A second-hand textbook, for example, costs only half the price of a new one, easing the financial burden on those from ordinary families. For another, it contributes to environmental protection. Reusing items reduces waste like thrown away clothes or paper, which in turn lessens pressure on resource recycling systems.

In conclusion, college students should actively join in campus second-hand recycling. Whether by selling old items or buying second-hand ones, such small actions add up to big gains. This not only saves money but also helps build a greener campus life.

My View on Crises

It is inevitable that people will meet various crises in daily life. These crises can come in various forms, such as academic pressure, health issues, or financial difficulties.

When it comes to crises, people's attitudes differ significantly. On the one hand, some people think that crises are helpless and useless, choosing to complain or even give up. They see crises as unsolvable obstacles. On the other hand, other people have different opinions. They view challenges as opportunities to learn and grow. Instead of losing hope, they analyze the situation and take positive actions.

In my opinion, crises are not the end but a turning point. A positive attitude can help us not only overcome difficulties but also build courage for the future.

Aid Education

Each year, college students are encouraged to aid children in the poverty-stricken areas and volunteer themselves in poor villages for a year and try to improve education in poor areas.

Aid-education benefits college students in two aspects. For one thing, college volunteers open the eyes of children in underdeveloped regions to the outside world by bringing them new knowledge and thoughts. As a result, they will be extremely well-received by the children there. For another, college students have the chance to enjoy the appreciation and no-distance friendship from the children and can be inspired by the moving and tireless spirit of the children at the same time.

In my opinion, China's educational development can't be isolated from individuals and we college students should take the lead in response to the appeal for offering aid to children in poor areas.

My View on Campus Entrepreneurship

In recent years, campus entrepreneurship has gradually been popular among college students. They run online stores, work as tutoring agents, or open small cultural shops.

There are two main reasons behind this trend. First, it offers a low-risk platform to apply academic theories to real-life situations. For example, a marketing student could promote products on campus and gain firsthand insights into consumer behaviors. Second, it eases college students' financial burden, for projects like selling second-hand books need little investment but can bring stable income, reducing reliance on families.

In my view, campus entrepreneurship is valuable but needs rationality. It cultivates skills like problem-solving and time management, but studies must come first. Balancing both well lays a solid foundation for the future. In short, it's worth trying with clear goals and proper time management.

My View on Using Fitness Apps

With the rise of technology, fitness apps have become increasingly popular among people who want to stay fit. More and more individuals are turning to these apps to guide their exercise routines and monitor their progress.

Fitness apps offer several advantages. They provide convenience, allowing users to work out anytime and anywhere. Additionally, these apps often include various workout plans and tracking features that help users stay motivated. However, there are also drawbacks. Without professional supervision, users might not exercise correctly, leading to potential injuries. Moreover, some apps may not meet individual needs, resulting in ineffective training.

In my opinion, while fitness apps can be beneficial for maintaining an active lifestyle, they should be used with caution. It's important to combine their use with experts' advice to ensure safe and personalized

My View on Catchwords

Catchwords are novel descriptions, which enjoy great popularity among the public and possess the ability of spreading. They can be applied to depict everything, including mindset, state, and people. Therefore, increasingly more catchwords have been appearing at the speed far faster than we expect.

There has always been great dispute as for the popularity of catchwords. For some people, they reckon that catchwords reflect the development of language and information technology, which stands for the improvement of the whole society; while for others, they are of the opinion that catchwords are vulgar and momentary, which can have no positive effect on the society.

Personally speaking, catchwords conform to the trend of the historical development under certain circumstance, which can not be eradicated. Besides, some catchwords do demonstrate the younger
